

Welcome

Hello! My name is Diana Tran. I'm a student at the University of Texas at Austin, Hook'em, majoring in biology, B.S.A, and minoring in business! I am expected to graduate in May of 2020 and afterwards I hope to go to optometry school.

Personal

I was born and raised in Houston, Texas! At home it's just my parents, my two younger brothers, and my paternal grandmother. Way back in high school, I was heavily involved with orchestra, more specifically the violin, and my parents have always prioritized music education- which is something that I am eternally grateful for. Although I haven't played the violin since then, it's been a great privilege of mine watching my two younger brothers continue the legacy, if you will, that I have left behind, with Nathan playing the cello and Ethan also playing the violin. Before college, when I had all the time in the world, as it felt, I used to bake, paint and read all the time. I loved baking birthday treats for my friends (cake pops, cupcakes, pies and full on birthday cakes for my younger brothers. I would also paint/embroider/ craft all sorts of gifts for my friends as well. As for reading, I still do my best to find time to read in college as a good brain break from studying. My favorite genre would have to be memoirs or historical fiction, although at the time of writing this I'm currently reading The Testaments by Margaret Atwood. Since coming to Austin, however, I've taken to new interests such as going to concerts, the music scene here is honestly incredible, exploring the cuisines and diverse foods, and hiking! Before coming to college, I had never been to a single concert and now I've been to more than I can count, I feel like music festivals and concerts in general are such great experiences since they are so shareable. Likewise, I love finding new places to eat with my friends, I'm always open to trying new things and I don't think I could ever run out of places to go in Austin.

All of my favorites in one picture! My family and the Houston Rockets!!!
